Without clear roadmaps many health care providers have found that their mobile infrastructures have become operationally chaotic, labor intensive, bloated with cost overruns and extremely vulnerable to data security risks. Or worst yet, out of reach. Once attractive low cost “Bring Your Own Device” (BYOD) strategies are proving untenable especially in light of ever-increasing compliance and security concerns.

Health care is moving ever more aggressively to adopt an ever widening array of mobile devices to improve the quality of care and operational performance and proficiency. Along with this widening adoption comes the need to ensure security and compliance with HIPAA IT. That means yet additional IT resources, IT staffing need to be committed to managing those devices, addressing ‘encryption’, remote ‘wipe and lock’, use tracking, location tracking, software updates, HIPAA IT reporting and more... You seek to deliver care. We help you do that. Let us manage your devices.
